Leidos

I specialize in strategic economic analysis of wholesale power markets. I manage consulting engagements for diverse stakeholders, including project developers, asset managers, load-serving entities, and financial institutions. I have supported transactions and valuations for natural gas, coal, renewable, storage, and transmission assets across the U.S. and Canada, as well as in Europe, Australia, and Central America. When I am not thinking about energy markets or the next real estate investment, I am likely brewing beer or training for a triathlon.
