

Carl is the global industry approver for all Power and Alternative Energy transactions that also require credit approval, which includes corporate lending, debt underwriting and bridge facilities, project financing, tax equity and power-related hedging transactions.

His role is to assist originators with due diligence, financial projections and valuation, maintain an active dialogue with industry consultants, and advise credit approvers on industry-related technical, regulatory and market risks.

Carl is also a senior corporate banker in Citi's Power and Alternative Energy group. His clients have included wind and solar developer/owners, solar manufacturers and independent power producers.

Carl has been with Citi for over 25 years. His experience includes Structured Finance origination and Risk Management prior to joining Power in 2011. He is based in New York.